

From Intersections To Interwoven

With their debut album "Intersections," the crossover guitar duo catapulted themselves "to the top of the European fingerstyle scene" (Concerto 6/22). Following an extensive tour in Australia, they now present "Interwoven" - the duo's new program that is currently evolving into a new album. Interwoven, because it highlights the intertwined stories and experiences of the two guitarists, Carina Maria Linder (classical guitar, vocals) and Markus Schlesinger (fingerstyle guitar, vocals).

While they initially met at their stylistic and musical intersections in their first work, their music can now be described as intertwined... woven into a completely new style that blurs the boundaries of classical, jazz, and world music, creating its own musical universe. During their first tour in Australia, the musicians were inspired by the idea that it is the interconnectedness and exchange among individuals that transforms them into a fruitful and constructive whole, and they decided to dedicate an entire album to this concept. On their journey, Linder and Schlesinger present both new and old songs - from Intersections to Interwoven!